

Military intervention in Syria: should we have intervened or not?

March - April 2019 (flexible around school timetables)

10 selected Sixth Form students

1 Gough Square, London, EC4A 3DE

09.00 – 16.00

We ask for a contribution of £250 per school to facilitate the day and help with Caabu expenses. If individual students would like to take part, please email Kate on middletonk@caabu.org

Students will:

- Be exposed to new and diverse ways of thinking
- Be challenged to think beyond their preconceptions
- Be energised to debate key topics using informed and educated arguments

Students that complete the day will receive a 'Choose Love' T-shirt, donated by Help Refugees

Working in partnership with Natakallam and Help Refugees UK, students will hear a wide range of expert opinions:

- Chris Doyle, Director of Caabu, expert on the Middle East
- British Army officer, expert on military intervention in the Middle East
- Syrian Conversation Partner facilitated through Natakallam

To apply, write 300 – 500 words on:

Why does the Arab world matter?

Send your applications to Kate at middletonk@caabu.org by 8 February 2019

